MISS BIDDY McCANN;
—OR,—
THE WONDERFUL HAND.

BY DENNIS O'RAFFERTY.

PART FOURTH.

THE GRAND FINALE.

Within a foul cave in the regions of night,
The fearful abode of hobgobblin and sprite,
Surrounded by spectres forbidding and grim,
Behold, as a prisoner, venturesome Tim.

A jury assembled to sit on his case,
Whose faces displayed neither beauty nor grace;
The president judge, master-spirit of vice,
Gazed out with a leer that turned Tim's heart to ice.

"Call Timothy Byrne," said the judge with a frown,
Unfetter his limbs, let his wrists be unbound;
Have you any reason to offer, young man,
For wickedly stealing 'THE WONDERFUL HAND.'"

"A rason?" cried Tim, "be me sowl an I have,
'Tis this: that me sowl the rich treasure did crave;
I knew not yer honor on it had a claim;
I thought it would secure me both riches and fame.

"Instead it has been all the cause of me grafe,
It's right glad I am that ye have it home safe,
And if ye'll but free me and let me depart,
Ye're welcome to kape it wid all of me heart."

"Nay mortal," quoth he who presided, "'tis mete
That ere you should lave such a lovely retreat,
A lesson of wisdom we to you impart,
To teach you to meddle no more with our art.

"Convey him in haste to 'the slippery crag,'
Where perished the nettle-brained Clare county hag—
And if by good fortune its summit he gains,
Let freedom reward the rash youth for his pains."

A giant now seized him and bore him away
To where rose a precipice, rugged and gray,
And bidding him seek for a mode of egress,
He left him to scale it or die at its base.

"Och hone gramachree!" cried poor Tim in despair,
"The divil himsel couldn't clamber up there;
But if I lie here I'll be food for the bats,
They'll fight o'er me flesh like the Kilkenny cats.

"So here goes to try for me freedom wid might;
Swate Vargin assist me to scale the smooth height;
Paralysis saize on that HAND, is me prayer,
I'll ne'er stale another I vow and declare."

Just then a large bird, of a race now extinct,
Mistaking poor Tim for a pig, so I think,
Flew down from its perch, taking Tim by the hair,
It sailed away heavenward up through the air.

Retaining his presence of mind, he was mute,
For fear he might frighten the murdtherin brute;
One only remark did he venture to make,
"Be jabers I'me saved if his howld dizn't break!"

But oh what a thinking he kept up meantime,
As nearer the top his rude captor did climb;
He kicked off his boots thus to lessen his weight,
For fierce was the pain that encircled his pate.

But safely the bird brought him up to the top,
And into its nest his fair body did drop;
The young birds put on quite a look of dismay,
For ne'er had they gazed on such strange looking prey.

The parent-bird looked on poor Tim with disdain,
Half tempted to tumble him over again;
But ere it had time, pro or con, to decide,
Tim left at a pace that a race-horse defied.

When safe out of sight he decided to pause,
To bind up the gashes made by the bird's claws;
But what was his horror to find his head bare,
His life had been saved by the breadth of a hair.

To moralize then the great spalpeen began:
"Was iver it thus since creation of man?
Had Absalom's hair sarved his body as well
He might have been living the story to tell.

"But shure I am glad that it stuck to me head
Until I was safe wid the young birds in bed,
For had it gev way but a moment before
I might have been knockin' at St. Peter's door.

"I'm glad I escaped wid the loss of me hair;
I'll lave the bird that, shure, in pledge for me fare,
And if I'm ne'er able the pledge to redeem,
I'll hould that ould bird in the highest esteem.

"Henceforth I shall live by the sweat of me brow,
And thry to kape clear of that party below;
Wid pockets bereft now of avil's swate root,
I'll curtail ambition me prospects to suit.

"A widower now wid youth's bloom on me cheek,
A swate Irish lass for a partner I'll seek;
But shure I must get me a wig for this head,
They'll think it was robbed by the vixen that's dead.

"Financially speking, that schame was a miss,
Except the remembrance of marital bliss;
The joy it imparted to hear she was dead,
Does scarcely o'er balance an agle-clawed head.

"But why do I vent on poor Biddy me spleen?
The fault wasn't hers that is plain to be seen;
Her charms were to me like a cable of sand,
The 'open sesame' was 'THE WONDERFUL HAND.'

"Bad luck to the HAND, it has ruined me quite,
Uncovered me head, and near killed me wid fright;
May ague unnail ivery finger straightway,
And sind them to Satan to swaten his tay."

The Story-Teller.

THE GHOST OF HERON LAKE.

Under the young shade of the old trees before the Heron Lake House, Hugh Cheviot tied his horse, and took off his straw hat to feel the balmy woodland air bathe his temples. It was dewy and sweet with the scent of horse chestnut blossoms.—Through the slopes of birches and alders the lake glimmered blue like a sheet of steel. Cheviot drew a long, quivering breath.

"Glad to see you, colonel!" called his host from the portico.

"Yes, I am here at last," responded Cheviot, advancing toward the house, but his gaze wandering after two white butterflies waltzing down the slope.

"Fine weather," placing two chairs in proximity on the piazza.

"It seems to me the most beautiful Spring for years," was the response, as Cheviot sat down, the sunset light striking full on his face—the face of a warrior, scarred and marked with life, but noble as stern. "The house is not full, I think you said? It will be quiet here?"

"Quiet enough," responded Peter Stewart, shrugging his shoulders.

"Who are your guests?" asked Cheviot, pulling at his brown beard. "Heron Lake cannot be a fashionable locality?" with a half-apprehensive look toward a glittering carriage-load of ladies rolling along the tree-hung road.

"No, no. Those are people from the village, six miles away. It's Mr. St. Lambert's team. Nice horses; see the furthermost bay. There's a gait for you!"

"Yes, yes. Then they are not coming here?"

"Well, Mr. St Lambert's here—sometimes."

"Boards here? And who else?"

"A family named Stamford, another named Rochester, and a few invalids."

Cheviot appeared satisfied. The supper bell rang.

After supper, seized by the enticing charm of the steel-blue water glinting among the trees, he started suddenly to visit it.

His host called after him: "It's a half a mile away!" but he still kept on.

The glades were scented and sweet.—The birds twittered sleepily on the branches of blossomed boughs, or eyed him with bright, hidden eyes from their nests. He found a tinkling little brook leading down to the lake, and followed it.

It widened gradually into the sheet of pale, blue water. Bankful among the darkening green, Heron Lake gemmed the forest like a pearl.

"Why did they give this lovely spot such an ugly title?" murmured Cheviot, seating himself upon a fallen tree.

The fading light grew murky; the silence deepened; yet the sweetness and coolness held him until all was black and still.

A rushing noise in the bushes suddenly startled him. Was it midnight? He was wet by the dew. He rose to his feet, recalled to his task of returning. But as he turned, a figure, dimly white, stood in his path!

Slight and light and graceful, it waived aside, and was gone. For a moment he doubted that he had beheld it. All was dim and lonely, and the rustling tree-tops were monotonously repeating some vague, sad story.

"Has Heron Lake a ghost?" he asked himself, as he plunged through the alders homeward.

* * * * *

"Mr. St. Lambert, Colonel Cheviot.'

The gentlemen acknowledged the introduction somewhat formally, both privately preferring not to be intruded upon; but Mr. Peter Stewart silently congratulated himself upon having done the correct thing.

Mr. St. Lambert had been at the Heron Lake House full three days, and until now no opportunity of presenting Colonel Cheviot, his favorite guest, to this gentleman had occurred. Mr. St. Lambert was sitting on the piazza, and Col. Cheviot, lost in thought, had approached inadvertently.

A cold, well-chiseled, handsome face was St. Lambert's, with pale hair curling around it. His dress, his diamonds, were exquisite. He was about thirty years of age—nearly ten years younger than Cheviot. Each man, you would have said, understood himself well.

The colonel remarked that it was fine weather.

"Yes, but a cursed lonely spot to find it in!" responded Mr. Lambert, taking advantage of Mr. Stewart having been called in-doors.

"You are detained here against your will?"

"I hoped to be in Paris this month," was the reply.

In three days more Peter was satisfied that his two distinguished guests would not fraternize.

Cheviot was getting the rest of spirit that he needed. And soon, since the Rochesters and the Stamfords were not intrusive, and the heart of the woods was open to him, he felt himself slowly coming to life, after years of suffering that had benumbed him.

All his hopes in life had been centered upon a woman who was lost to him. The old story, but never beyond belief to the stricken heart upon which it falls. Clare Edgerton's marriage, against her will, to the man to whom her father was indebted, had cast a shadow, like that of a gravestone, down the path of Cheviot's life. All beauty, all enjoyment was lost to him when he found himself bereft of her. He seemed to have died to himself

But now the sky and the rustling boughs, and the violets looking at him blue and brave-eyed from the grass, aroused and vitalized him. A voice came out of the wood's recesses saying: "This is not all. There is more to come."

Meanwhile he ate the trout of the hill-side streams, slept sweetly, was polite to the Stamfords and Rochesters, and avoided Mr. St. Lambert.

He awoke one night, and heard a voice singing outside of the window. A woman's voice, sweet and strange, and with vibrations in it that seemed familiar. Moonlight shone white on the wall, through the branches of a tree. He aroused himself and looked at his watch. It was a quarter to three in the morning.

Strange as the circumstance was, an almost unaccountable excitement seized him, as he dressed and went out upon the upper piazza. But already there were lights and the voices of men about the house. Soon a voice—it was very like St. Lambert's—called, "We've got her!" Then all grew still.

But he could not sleep again until past day-break. That singing voice so haunted him.

The next day he made inquiries. A sick woman, deranged by spells, had escaped from the care of her nurses, they told him.

Two weeks passed; A wild, rainy spell drove Cheviot in-doors from his accustomed haunts, and little Mrs. Rochester, who secretly admired the stern man with the sad eyes, invited him to her private parlor, an invitation which, to his own surprise, he accepted.

First she tried him with a bit of gossip.

"Have you heard," she said, "that Mr. St. Lambert is to be married next week?"

Cheviot had not heard.

"To Miss Rosa Grant, of New York, who is staying at the village hotel, six miles off. And they do say, Colonel Cheviot, that he has a wife!"

"A wife?"

"Yes, an insane wife. And that she is kept here in a back wing of the house with her nurses. Mr. St. Lambert is wealthy, though they say it is with her fortune; but money won't help him to get divorced from a sick wife," concluded Mrs. Rochester, with flashing eyes, which were to be interpreted by the fact that the little woman was in delicate health, and had a course looking husband, who treated her with brutal indifference.

"Certainly not," said Cheviot.

"I have never seen this invalid woman. St. Lambert says it is his sister, but I know parties who can prove that she is his wife. Peter Stewart is in the secret. Do you know that she escapes and wanders about the ground? And that is what the excitement was about the other night!"

"Indeed! I distinctly heard some strange, sweet singing."

"She has a heavenly voice. And she calls, sometimes, a man's name, piercingly, sweetly; it would make your heart ache if you chanced to hear it. But they always hush her up and keep her as quiet as possible. This is my third summer here, or I should not know so much."

"The skeleton in the house," said Cheviot, smiling.

"Yes, almost literally. They say she is pined away to look like a spirit more than a living thing."

"A spirit? I think I saw one in the woods the night I came here!" exclaimed Cheviot.

"Perhaps it was Mrs. St. Lambert."

"Possibly," returned Cheviot, with a start.

He sat musing for a while on what he had heard.

In course of a few days the strange story became familiar to him. The indifference which he had before felt for St. Lambert now changed for a decided disapproval and dislike.

"A bad man," he said to himself, regarding more attentively the handsome Greek profile and the bold eyes.

The next week closed the stay of Colonel Cheviot at the Heron Lake House. Once more he wandered alone to the little sheet of blue water, and as the afternoon was hot and the balsamic scent of the pines heavy, he fell asleep, couched luxuriously on a bed of brown, rustling leaves.

A violent peal of thunder awoke him. He sprang up. The sky was black. Lines of lightning played above the pine-tops. It was too late to escape; he could only sink back under the matted boughs, trusting to their destiny to protect him from the coming rain.

"Suddenly, pleadingly, sweetly, a voice called his name.

"Hughie! Hughie!"

Cheviot leaped to his feet.

"Hughie!" "Hughie!"

How frightfully like the voice of the woman he had lost! But she would never call him more. No, no—never any more! He threw himself down among the russet leaves again, almost with a sob.

How he had loved the lips which had made that plain name sweet! Oh, God! but thou only may witness the strong man's agony.

When Cheviot again raised his head, the slight white figure of a woman, stood beside the basin of the little lake. He gazed at her, momentarily, his gaze deepening. Her pure cut features, the wealth of silky black hair unrolled and falling down the loose gray dress, the frail white hands, the attenuated yet graceful form—they were like, and yet unlike, the Clara Edgerton he had been bereft of, and again he found himself upon his feet, and breathlessly fearfully pressing forward.

The white figure moved slowly along the bank, her gaze turned aside. Overhead the thunder rolled heavily.

Suddenly there was a crash among the bushes. The figure of a man leapt into view.

The white figure turned at the sound. Then, like one who, weak and helpless, anticipates violence, the strange woman flung herself upon her knees with the ringing cry:

"Mercy! Mercy!"

A muttered curse, and her captor was upon her. By her loose dark hair he dragged her prostrate. With his booted foot he kicked her feeble body, while she seemed to have fainted.

It was a man with the face of a demon that Cheviot sprang upon and choked from a hold upon his victim.

St. Lambert!

For a moment the two men glared at each other. Then a blinding light seemed to sear their eyeballs.

"One shall be taken and the other left."

When Hugh Cheviot regained consciousness, a woman's tender hand was brushing the rain from his face. Softly her tremulous voice cooed above him:

"Hughie! Hughie!"

"Clare!"

He looked up into her eyes, meeting his pitifully under the disheveled black hair.

"You are not hurt; but he is dead," she said.

Clare Edgerton and the wife of St. Lambert!—who lay lifeless where heaven's thunderbolt had stretched him!

Wrapped close in his cloak, and borne in his arms, he carried his treasure back to the hotel.

That she was now quite sane they were all obliged to acknowledge. And when St Lambert was brought in on a stretcher, his scarred, blackened and distorted face told too plainly how he had died.

Miss Rose Grant drove out in her carriage, but heard a tale of her lover which sent her back speechless and shivering.

Devotion and happiness won Clare back to health, serenity and strength. Her fortune was rescued, and in a month she was the happy wife of a happy husband—Mrs. Hugh Cheviot.

Reading for the Million.

Good-Nature.

Be good natured if you can, for there is no attraction so great, no charm so admirable. A face that is full of the expression of amiability is always beautiful. It needs no paint and no powder. Cosmetics are superfluous for it. Rogue cannot improve its cheeks, nor lily white mend its complexion. Its loveliness lies beyond all this. It is not the beauty that is but skin deep. For when you gaze into the face of noble man or woman, it is not the shape of the feature you really see, nor yet the tint of the cheek, the hue of the lip, or the brilliancy of the eye. You see the nameless something which animates all these, and leaves for your instinct a sense of grateful fascination; you see an indescribable embodiment of a heartfelt goodness within, which wins your regard in spite of external appearance, and defies all the critical rules of the æsthetic. Cultivate good-nature, therefore. It is better than "apples of gold set in pictures of silver," for gold will take to itself wings and fly away, silver will tarnish in time, and both, when abundant, lose their comparative value; but good-nature never, never loses its worth—never abandons its possessor to the mental poverty of the malicious—never loses its hold on the esteem of the world. It is always in fashion and always in season. Everybody admires it. It never grows stale. It costs little to acquire and nothing to keep. Yet it is beyond diamonds in its worth to its owners, and can neither be stolen nor lost, however neglected. Surely this is a jewel that merits a search; and, when found, merits a protection. Possess yourselves of it, young women; no talisman will find you so bewitching in the judgment of the sensible among the other sex.

Modern Courtship.

The system of love, courtship and marriage has undergone very radical changes since the days when Jacob devoted a considerable portion of his life to winning Leah, the tender-eyed, and Rachel, the beautiful. Who, in this age of steam, electricity and Atlantic cables, could devote seven years to paying those laborious attentions which have justly come to be called "serious"—so serious, indeed, that in many instances the fashionable pair are oppressed by a sad feeling of soberness during the remainder of their lives? Even Jacob himself, did he live in our time, would scout at the idea as preposterous. Fancy "the girl of the period" bombarded with flowers, at the rate of ten dollars per boquet, during seven mortal winters! Calculate how many hundreds of miles of "Germans" the aspirants would dance during the same space of time! Imagine the innumerable cups of tea he would imbibe in the domestic circle while on such long terms of intimacy with his beloved's family. No physical system could stand it. The most robust man would break down under the ordeal.—Even Patrick himself, who from early youth has been brought up to constant and severe labor, would find it impossible, while "kapeing company" with Bridget, to "ice-crame and discoorse her" for a period of seven consecutive years. The world was made in seven days; but many of the enterprising youth of the present age have shown that all the courting necessary before marriage can be accomplished in much less time, Jacob to the contrary notwithstanding.—New York Evening Post.

I WUD knot dye in summer and leave the garden sass, the roasted lamb and buttermilk, the cool place on the grass.—I wud knot dye in summer, when everything is hot, and leave the whisky jewlips; owe know, I'de rather knott.—Josh Billings.

Home Courtesies.

A writer in Harper's Bazar makes some excellent remarks concerning courtesies at home. Please listen, good people of the home circle:

"The placing of the arm-chair in a warm place for mamma, running for a foot-stool for aunty, hunting up papa's spectacles, and seres of little loving deeds, show unsuppressed and loving hearts. But if mamma never returns a smiling 'Thank you, dear,' if papa's 'Just what I was wanting, Susie,' does not indicate that the little attention is appreciated, the children soon drop the habit. Little people are imitative creatures, and quickly catch the spirit surrounding them. So, if when the mother's spool of cotton rolls from her lap, the father stoops to pick it up, bright eyes will see the act, and quick minds make a note of it. By example, a thousand times more quickly than by precept, children can be taught to speak kindly to each other, to acknowledge favors, to be gentle and unselfish, to be thoughtful and considerate of the comfort of the family. The boys, with inward pride of their father's courteous demeanor, will be chivalrous and helpful to their young sisters; the girls, imitating the mother, will be gentle and patient, even when big brothers are noisy and heedless. In the home where the true courtesy prevails, it seems to meet you on the very threshold. You feel the kindly welcome on entering. No rude eyes scan your dress. No angry voices are heard up stairs. No sullen children are sent from the room. A delightful atmosphere pervades the house—unmistakable, yet indescribable.

Scrap-Books.

The best paste for scrap-books is made of flour. Apply it with a soft brush to the back of the paper to be pasted in and pat down the scrap with a soft cloth. Both sides of the leaf may be scrapped, and many successive pages filled at once, but care should be taken to remove all paste from each page when it is completed, and the book should be left wide open to dry. A well-filled scrap-book is a very pleasant companion of a rainy day, especially if taste and discretion have been exercised in its arrangement. Stories should be in a part of the book by themselves; the same may be said of poetry, and of wit.—If all the newspapers usually torn and burned for kindling were carefully scissored there might be in every family a book of wit and wisdom, of information, and entertainment second to none in the family library, always excepting the Bible. It is well to accumulate quite a store of scraps before beginning the book and employ some rainy day of leisure in arranging them properly and fastening them in place. Picture-books for children, far superior, in point of variety and interest, to any in the shops, may be made by saving up pictures and pasting them into some volume not of intrinsic merit—an old census book with good binding answers the purpose. At intervals through the book a half dozen leaves should be cut off smoothly, leaving a half inch margin, to make room for the scrappings and keep the book in good order.

Drinking for the Effects.

He said he didn't care anything about liquor, only the effects. He never liked the taste of it; made him "gag" to drink it; and he made an awful face as he took it down. But it was the effect he was after. If it wasn't for the effects he would never drink a drop of liquor in his life. He was a nice young man when we first heard him say that. He had health, good looks, property and a respectable position in society. The only perceptible effects of his potations then were the heightened color in his cheek, increased brilliancy of the eyes and vivacity in conversation. He was generous and liberal with his money, too, and had a "host of friends." Well, he kept on drinking for the effects and he got them, as every man will who keeps at it long enough. The last time we saw him he was that pitiful object, a human wreck. He was standing at a bar pleading for a drink on time, his trembling fingers being unable to find even a solitary nickel in the pockets of his ragged apparel. He had kept on gagging over his whisky and drinking for the effects until he hadn't any effects left, except those painfully apparent ones, poverty, disease, privation and vanished respectability. Verily, he got the effects.

The Old Red Cent.

As the old "red cent" has now passed out of use, and except rarely, out of sight, like the "old oaken bucket," its history is a matter of sufficient interest for preservation. The cent was first proposed by Robert Morris, the great financier of the revolution, and was named by Jefferson two years after. It began to make its appearance from the mint in 1792. It bore the head of Washington on one side, and thirteen links on the other. The French revolution soon created a rage for French ideas in America, which put on the cent, instead of the head of Washington, the head of the goddess of liberty—a French liberty, with neck thrust forward and flowing locks. The chain on the reverse side was displaced by the olive wreath of peace, but the French liberty was short-lived, and so was her portrait on our cent. The next head or figure that succeeded this—the staid, classic dame with a fillet around her hair—came into fashion about thirty or forty years ago, and her finely-chiselled Grecian features have been but slightly altered by the lapse of time.

Forgiveness.

The mantle of charity ought to be thrown around the faults of our fellow-beings "Thy sins be forgiven thee" should be the answer for us to give to those who have sinned against us and wish to be taken back to our bosoms and be as they once were, pure and sinless. Forgive and forget; memory will not let us forget, but it is in the power of exalted human benevolence. Saddenning scenes will often press themselves upon our attention, even when we do the best to prevent them. So scenes of harmony between ourselves and our human relations will arise in the soul, notwithstanding the presence and influence of that principle of christian charity which should inspire every human soul with its divine effulgence. Yet memory, however faithful to her trust will not prevent us from being lenient towards the faults and follies of others and to forgive their departure from a true life.

THE boy who, when asked to what trade he would wish to be brought up, replied: "I will be a trustee, because ever since papa has been a trustee we have had puddings for dinner."

A Pleasing Incident.

Sitting in the station the other day, I had a little sermon preached in the way I like; and I'll report it for your benefit, because it taught one of the lessons we all should learn, and taught it in such a natural, simple way, that no one could forget it. It was a bleak, snowy day; the train was late; the ladies' room dark and smoky; and the dozen women, old and young, who sat waiting impatiently, all looked cross, low-spirited, or stupid. I felt all three; and thought, as I looked around that my fellow beings were a very unamiable, uninteresting set.

Just then a forlorn old woman, shaking with palsy, came in with a basket full of wares for sale, and went about mutely offering them to the sitters. Nobody bought anything, and the poor old soul stood blinking at the door a minute, as if reluctant to go out into the bitter storm again. She turned presently and poked about the room, as if trying to find something, and then a pale lady in black, who lay as if asleep on a sofa, opened her eyes, saw the old woman, and instantly asked in a kind tone, "Have you lost anything, ma'am?"

"No, dear, I am looking for the heatin' place, to have a warm 'fore I goes out again. My eyes is poor, and I don't seem to find the furnace nowheres."

"Here it is," and the lady led her to the steam raditator, placed a chair, and showed her how to warm her feet.

"Well, now ain't that nice!" said the old woman, spreading her ragged mittens to dry. "Thanky, dear; this is proper comfortable, ain't it? I'm most froze today, bein' lame and wimbley; and not selling much makes me down hearted."

The lady smiled, went to the counter, bought a cup of tea and some sort of food, carried it herself to the old woman, and said, as respectfully and kindly as if the poor woman had been dressed in silk and fur, "Won't you have a cup of hot tea? It's very comforting such a day as this."

"Sakes alive! do they give tea to this depot?" cried the old lady, in a tone of innocent surprise that made a smile go round the room, touching the gloomiest face like a streak of sunshine. "Well, now, this is jest lovely," added the old lady, sipping away with a relish, "This does warm the cockles of my heart!"

While she refreshed herself, telling her story meanwhile, the lady looked over the poor little wares in the basket, bought soap and pins, shoe-strings, and tape, and cheered the old soul by paying well for them.

As I watched her doing this, I thought what a sweet face she had, though I'd considered her plain before. I felt dreadfully ashamed of myself, that I had grimly shaken my head when the basket was offered me; and as I saw the look of interest, sympathy and kindliness come into the dismal faces all around me I did wish that I had been the magician to call it out. It was only a kind word and a friendly act, but somehow it brightened that dingy room wonderfully. It changed the faces of a dozen women, and I think it touched a dozen hearts, for I saw many eyes follow the plain lady with sudden respect; and when the old woman got up to go, several persons beckoned to her, and bought something, as if they wanted to repair their first negligence.

Old beggar women are not romantic, neither are cups of tea, boot-laces, and colored soap. There were no gentlemen present to be impressed with the lady's kind act, so it wasn't done for effect, and no possible reward could be received for it except the ungrammatical thanks of a ragged old woman. But that simple little charity was as good as a sermon to those who saw it, and I think each traveler went on her way better for that half hour in the dreary station. I can testify that one of them did, and nothing but the emptiness of her purse prevented her from "comforting the cockles of the heart" of every forlorn old woman she met for a week after.—Louisa M. Alcott.

Essay on Woman.

Women are like everything else in this world—a very mixed up affair. According to our own observation there are

Women good and women bad,
Women gay and women sad,
Women big and women small,
Women short and women tall.
Women fat and women lean,
Women sweet and women mean.
Women young and women old,
Women bought and women sold,
Women poor and women rich,
And a good many more women sich.

The first woman in this world was Eve. Eve was a bad girl. She didn't belong to the Good Templars. Eve liked apple cider too well—she wanted her's dry. We never saw Eve, but they say she was a pretty girl. Her fellow was a chap by the name of Adam. We never went to school with him. Eve was like the rest of her sisters; just tell her not to do a thing and she would be sure to do it. Eve must have been a country girl. She didn't care much for fashion, and she made her own clothes without a sewing machine. She would be rather behind the times should she visit us now.

Some women are very pretty. We don't like pretty women—there are always so many fellows around them. They remind us of a lot of flies on a molasses stick. We like the molasses but—bother the flies.

Good women are plenty in this country, but they never will tell you of it, you have got to trail 'em out yourself.

Bad women are everywhere. They are like rotten apples in a barrel of good ones—apt to throw their decayed influence around them. They will always try to make you believe they are good. Don't take a bad woman. She is a counterfeit treasure. Look out for trade-mark.

Gay women are jolly fellows, always on a laugh. They make you feel good clear to your sleeve-buttons.

A sad woman ought to wear spectacles with pink colored glasses in them. That would make her look at the world in a different light.

We don't know that we like a big woman better than a little one. If she is so big that a step ladder is required to kiss her, we most respectfully decline in favor of the small one. As we reflect further on this subject, we come to the conclusion that the small ones are always preferable, they have a tendency to hang themselves—around a fellow—and we want to furnish the material for a hanging post.

We hate a mean woman. We feel like saying "deliver us from evil" whenever we see one. But give us a sweet woman—one of nature's own children—with rosy cheeks and loving eyes, with a noble heart, a high-toned mind, a pure soul and a healthy body, refined in taste, developed in intellect; be she poor or rich, young or old, large or small—to such an one we would say, "fly unto our arms, darling; we love you."

The Joker's Budget.

The Deaf Aunt and Wife.

I had an aunt coming to see me for the first time since my marriage, and I don't know what evil genius prompted the wickedness which I perpetrated towards my wife's ancient relative.

"My dear," said I to my wife on the day before my aunt's arrival, "you know Aunt Mary is coming to-morrow. Well, I forgot to mention a rather annoying circumstance with regard to her. She is very deaf, although she can hear my voice, to which she is accustomed, in its ordinary tones; yet you will be obliged to speak extremely loud in order to be heard. It will be rather inconvenient, but I know you will do anything in your power to make her stay agreeable."

Mrs. ——— announced her determination to make herself heard if in her power. I then went to John N———, who loves a joke about as well as any person I know of, and told him to be at my house at six P. M. the following evening and I felt comparatively happy.

I went to the railroad depot with a carriage the next night, and when I was on my way home with my aunt I said—

"My dear aunt, there is one rather annoying infirmity that Annie, my wife has, which I forgot to mention before. She is very deaf, and, although she can hear my voice, to which she is accustomed, in its ordinary tones, yet you will be obliged to speak very loud in order to be heard. I am very sorry for it.

Aunt Mary, in the goodness of her heart, protested that she rather liked speaking loud, and to do so would afford her great pleasure.

The carriage drove up. On the steps was my wife, in the window was John N———, with a face as utterly solemn as if he had buried his relative that afternoon.

"I am delighted to see you," shrieked my wife, and the policemen on the opposite side-walk started, and my aunt nearly fell down the steps.

"Kiss me, my dear," bawled my aunt, and the windows shook as with the fever and ague. I looked at the window—John had disappeared. Human nature could endure it no longer. I poked my head into the carriage and went into strong convulsions.

When I entered the parlor, my wife was helping Aunt Mary to take off her hat and cape; and there sat John with his face buried in his handkerchief.

Suddenly—"Did you have a pleasant journey?" went off my wife like a pistol, and John nearly jumped to his feet.

"Rather dusty," was the response in a war whoop, and the conversation continued.

The neighbors for blocks around must have heard it. When I was in the third story of the building I heard every word.

In the course of the evening my aunt took occasion to say to me—

"How loud your wife talks!"

I told her deaf persons talked loudly, and that my wife being used to it was not affected by the exertion, and that she was getting on very nicely with her.

Presently my wife said softly—

"Alf, how very loud your aunt talks."

"Yes," said I, "all deaf persons do. You are getting along with her finely; she hears every word you say." And I rather think she did.

Elated at their success at being understood, they went hammer and tongs till everything upon the mantel shelf clattered again, and I was seriously afraid of a crowd collecting in front of the house.

But the end was near. My aunt being of an investigating turn of mind was desirous of finding out whether the exertion of talking was injurious to my wife. So—

"Doesn't talking so loud strain your lungs?" said she, in an unearthly whoop, for her voice was not so musical as it was when she was young.

"It is an exertion!" shrieked my wife.

"Then why do you do it?" was the answering scream.

"Because—because—you can't hear if I don't," squeaked my wife.

"What?" said my aunt, fairly rivaling a railroad whistle at the time.

I began to think it time to evacuate the premises, and, looking around and seeing John gone, I stepped into the back parlor, and there he lay on his back, with his feet at right angles with his body, rolling from side to side, with his fist poked into his ribs, and a most agonized expression of countenance, but not uttering a sound. I immediately and involuntarily assumed a similar attitude, and think from the relative position of feet and heads, and our attempts to restrain our laughter, apoplexy must inevitably have ensued, if a horrible groan which John gave vent to in his endeavor to suppress his risibility had not betrayed our hiding place.

In rushed my wife and aunt, who by this time comprehended the joke, and such a scolding as I got I never received before, and I hope never to get again.

Don't Insult the Doctor.

A hearse was slowly rolling along toward the Cemetery Pere La Chaise, and a gig was running rapidly from the opposite direction. The two met, but the place was narrow, and one of the gig's wheel's struck the hearse. The driver hurled an invective against the man that dared disturb the rest of the dead, and finished by saying:

"You ought to be boxed up in there yourself, you old villain!"

While this scene was passing, the janitor of the graveyard made signs for the driver to keep still, but he did not.

They entered. After the corpse was interred the janitor addressed him:

"Do you know what you have done, most miserable of men? Are you aware that if this man said but one word to the Board of Burial, you would be discharged, instantly?"

"Oh, sir, you do so frighten me. Is it the Chief of Police?"

"More—much more."

"Good heavens! Not a minister, I hope?"

"Even more," answered the janitor, and then continued: "He of all men in the world is most useful to you. You are under particular obligations to him, and so am I. That is the great Dr. Pillkill, whose prescriptions have not failed to make business good for all of us."

"I am a lost man forever! For mercy's sake, janitor, say nothing of it."

"Very well, I won't. But use it as a lesson, and in the future always manifest the greatest respect toward those who have it in their power to make men die."

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3. 1875.

Circulation LARGER than any other Paper in the Juniata Valley.

☞ Mr. Blaine succeeded in avoiding a session of the House on last Sunday.

☞ What is known as the "Force Bill" was passed by the National House of Representatives on Saturday last. Congress is coming out strong in the last hours of the session.

☞ The Western Union Telegraph monopoly has received a heavy check. The Atlantic and Pacific has cut down the rates and is running a healthy opposition. What a blessing it would be if the masses could enjoy cheap telegraph facilities once.

☞ The United States Senate, on Saturday last, by a handsome majority, passed the House Civil Rights bill, without amendment, and it now only wants the signature of the President to make it a law. Justice, though tardy, is about to be administered.

☞ We have received the first number of Jos. S. Cornman's Local Mirror, issued twice a week, at Carlisle, Pa. It is brimful of local matter and is gotten up with excellent taste. We wish our friend, Cornman, abundant success in this new enterprise and hope that it may be the means of filling his pockets with stamps.

☞ The Harrisburg Patriot appeared, on the morning of the 22d of February ult., in a new dress from head to foot, and in addition there is quite a change in its make up which we very much admire.—The Patriot is an excellent newspaper and a credit to the State Capitol as well as to the party which it represents.

☞ The Legislature is tinkering again at the salaries of the State officials, especially at that of the Governor. We hope that good sense will prevail, and that our Legislators will not further belittle themselves by any such foolishness. The salary or salaries are not a penny too much, and it is a mean and beggarly spirit which prompts a reduction.

☞ Last week when the bill repealing the Local Option Law was going through the House of Representatives, with a whoop and hurrah, our representatives separated. McNite was carried away with the strong flow of whiskey, while Mr. Mateer scaled the high ground and did his level best to stop the current with an appropriate dam. And now the whiskey men up here are throwing an occassional dam–n at Mr Mateer.

☞ We have received and publish today a prospectus of the Philadelphia Daily Times, the first number of which will be issued on or about the 13th inst. It will be under the general management of Col. A. K. McClure, well-known to most of our readers. It will be Independent Republican, in politics, and the way it will dissect rings will be a caution to all who have a penchant for dabbling in that sort of thing. Its very name will create a shaking among the dead men's bones about the Capitol. We welcome the Times and wish it long life and great success.

☞ It is a well known fact, in this community at least, that the only responsibility, for sentiments uttered under the Editorial and Local heads of the JOURNAL, rests with the individual whose name is announced as its editor under the editorial head. He publishes his own views, without reference to the views of any one else, and while he occupies the position that he now holds—and that will be just as long as he feels inclined to do so—no other individual will dictate his course — Any person acquainted with him will readily concede this. And, in brief, we can only characterize the effort, to hold any other person responsible for the sentiments promulgated by this paper from time to time, as the basest of Jesuitical knavery.

☞ The Directory of the P. R. R. has prepared a report of the company's business for the last year, which will be submitted to the regular meeting March 9.—The document, which is very long, begins by giving the total earnings and expenses of the main line from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia, including branch and leased lines, and from Philadelphia to New York, including the Delaware and Raritan Canal and Belvidere Delaware Railroad and Flemington Branch and the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad which were as follows: Earnings—General freights, $24,715,418.15; passengers, $9,259,916.43; emigrant passengers, $229,892.13; express matter, $686,022.24; mails, $309,64[illegible].39; miscellaneous, $865,852.70; canal earnings, (Delaware and Raritan Canal,) $1,320,519.23; total, $37,386,427.27. The expenses were $23,011,749.21, leaving the net earnings $14,374,678.06, which is an increase of $442,928 from Pittsburgh to New York, of $640,029 for the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad, and of $119,695 for the Belvidere Delaware Railroad. The total net profits of the lines west of Pittsburg operated by the Pennsylvania Company, or controlled through other organizations in the interests of that company, for the year were $84[illegible],338; and after deducting all expenses the net earnings are $9,396,924, which is a decrease from the preceding year of $48,779. The decrease in the gross expenses is also considerable, reaching $2,104,858. The whole number of passengers carried in 1873 was 5,879,684, and in 1874. 6,088,103, showing an increase of 208,419. The number of tons of freight moved (including 491,473 tons of fuel and other materials for the company's use) was 9,118,419, embracing 4,209,337 tons of coal. The total surplus and net profit, according to the Treasurer's exhibit, is $3,199,493.

Our New York Letter.

St. John's Guild—The Railroad War—Telegraph Companies—Beecher-Tilton—Art.

NEW YORK, March 1, 1875

ST. JOHN'S GUILD.

New York may be extravagant, but it is neither penurious nor mean. St. John's Guild is a charity celebrated for the thoroughness and system with which it does its work. Supported entirely by voluntary contributions, it accomplishes more for the relief of the poor than any dozen other charities in the city. It will be remembered that last summer it organized a series of excursions for the sick children of the very poor, taking them up the river in barges, six or seven hundred at a time, and giving the little invalids the fresh air and nourishing food necessary to keep them alive. All this terrible winter the Guild has furnished food, fuel and clothing for four thousand families, twenty thousand persons, all deserving cases, sought out by its officers. But the long continued cold weather was too much for the Guild and its resources were insufficient. Last Thursday morning it was announced that the supplies were exhausted, and that unless aid was rendered at once the charity must close its operations.—Many a poor widow, and many a poor man out of work, heard the announcement with a sinking heart, for during the long, tedious winter the Guild had been their only reliance.

They were unnecessarily alarmed. The announcement was made in the morning, and by night $2,000 in money and three enormous truck loads of provisions were sent in, enabling the royal charity to continue in its good work of feeding the hungry and clothing the naked. And money is still pouring in to a degree that will enable the Guild to not only feed its present pensioners, but to extend its benefactions. New York supports its charities nobly.

THE RAILROAD WAR.

The railroads have got each other by the ears, and the people are getting a benefit. The Baltimore and Ohio and the Pennsylvania Central have drawn the sword and (I hope) thrown away the scabbard, and the result is cheap fare. These roads have reduced their fares to the West, and of course all the others are doing likewise. To day tickets to Chicago which were $22.55, can be had over any of the roads leading to the West for $16.50, which makes traveling as cheap as can be reasonably asked. If the fight could only last—but it will not. When the fit of passion is over compromises will be effected, and up the rates will go as high or higher than ever. The railroads have us. And speaking of quarrels between corporations, the are having a turn at it. The Pacific and Atlantic got the control of certain patents that facilitate the transmission of messages, and immediately it attacked that monstrous monopoly, the Western Union. The first shot fired by the P. and A. was the reduction of ten-word messages to Washington, Philadelphia, Albany or Boston, and to places between those points, to 25 cents, less than half the old rate, and the Western Union was compelled to follow suit.—Now the P. and A. managers are arranging for a reduction to all points, and the Western Union is quaking in its shoes.—The fact is, telegraphing has been the most unmitigated swindle the people have had to bear. The rates have been three times what they should have been, for the reason that one company virtually controlled the business, and the people had to pay whatever was put upon them. And this struggle, as in the case of the railroads, will result in no permanent good After a brief fight a combination will be made, and the old rates will be restored.

The postal package system is keeping the express companies within bounds, and why should not the same department do our telegraphing? That's a question to be considered.

BEECHER—TILTON.

Theodore is off the stand, and now comes other witnesses. The most important of the new batch was Miss Kate Carey, formerly a nurse in Tilton's family, who swore directly that she saw Elizabeth Tilton sitting in Henry Ward's lap, with his arm about her, and that he came frequently to see her in her chamber. This testimony created a sensation, as might be supposed. Beecher's lawyers were ignorant of the existence of such a woman, and so were Tilton's for that matter. She was found by accident, which gives her testimony more weight than it would otherwise have. She was in Bellevue Hospital, and only the day before she testified, remarked to a lady that she had been a nurse in Tilton's family, and told what she had seen. Immediately the information was given to Tilton's attorneys, and Mrs. Carey was brought forthwith. The most cruel thing that has transpired is the putting on the stand of Joseph H. Richards, Mrs. Tilton's only brother. He very reluctantly swore to having seen the parties in a position that led to the gravest fears as to the purity of their relations to each other.—He was distressed at the position he was placed in, and said as little as possible.

But the great interest in this famous trial is yet to come. Beecher will take the stand in a short time to tell what he knows of it, or at least as much of what he knows, as he choses to tell. Then the fur will fly in earnest. His friends insist that he can disprove every statement that Tilton has made, and that he can clear himself of all the charges made against him, and come out speckless and stainless. Till he appears, the trial will be dull enough.

Friday morning Mrs. Frank Moulton was put upon the stand. If her husband was a terrible witness, the wife was doubly so. She swore directly to the fact that Beecher had confessed the crime to her specifically; and she swore in such a way as to carry conviction. The opinion is that Mrs. Moulton's testimony is the most terrible blow Beecher has received. But who knows what he has to counteract it.

ART.

The city is not quite given up to gossip and scandal, though the scandal makes the most noise. At the sale of pictures at the water-color exhibition, the prices paid were from $200 to over a thousand, which shows there is money in some hands.—Schaus, the picture-dealer, shows an exquisite Marguerite—the only one that ever approached the ideal purity and grace of Faust's village maiden—which is valued at $5,000, while a carnival scene of Roman girls in a balcony throwing confectionery—girls whose arms and necks on the canvass looked as if a touch would dimple them—was for sale at $3,000. The taste for art steadily increases, though perhaps not in the regular channels of paintings and sculpture as in the more familiar direction of decorative art. The best houses in New York have genuine artists in their employ for the finer portions of their work. Tiffany & Co.'s artist made the design for the vase to be presented to William Cullen Bryant, which bore away the palm from numerous competitors; and more than one furnishing company keeps a score of artists in their employ who design the interior of rich houses, so that wall hangings, curtains and carpets belong to each other, and are made for each other. The fittings for the Philadelphia parlor of a wealthy banker were all in Egyptian style. The pale tapestry carpets, the upholstery of the antique couches woven for the suite, and the hangings, which represented desert scenes, were tapestry fine as mellow painting, at distance enough to lose sight of the stitches. This compound of light green and sand-yellow tapestry, ebony and ivory sphinx heads, coffins and claws, cost $300,000—money enough, common folks would think, to spend on one suit of parlors. A Californian millionaire ordered from a house here a parlor suit that cost $250,000, gold, all designed and made in this city.

The amount looks very large for these hard times, but it is not business men, or those in active business, who do these things. It is those who have accumulated great fortunes in stocks, gold, oil, or in some other way, and who have hauled out of the current with more money than they know what to do with. It seems horrible that with so much distress in the country these immense sums should be spent on mere ornamentation; but it is a comfort to know that if the money must be thus spent it is all paid out in the country. The American artists and mechanics have out stripped their French competitors, and to-day stand confessedly in the van. PIETRO.

HARRISBURG.

The Resignation of Senator Wallace—The Treasury Investigation—Judicial Salaries—License Fee—Flood in the Juniata—Destruction of the New Iron Bridge at Lewistown—Ice Gorge Below the Town.

HARRISBURG, February 26.—Senator Wallace's resignation as State Senator will be handed in on Wednesday next, the 3rd of March, and he will leave for Washington on the same day, to witness the closing scene of the present Congress, and take his seat in the next on the following day. Mr. Wallace will separate from his associates with strong feelings of mutual regard. Personally, he has the confidence and esteem of almost every Senator, and this, certainly, is something, after twelve years' service, three-fourths of it during a period when our politics were intense in their bitterness and harsh feeling.

THE TREASURY INVESTIGATION.

An attempt to pass the Treasury Investigation resolution failed.

JUDICIAL SALARIES.

Another contest followed over the Judicial Salary bill, which was postponed till Tuesday. There is a strong fight against any increase, and for an equality of salary of city and country judges. The best that either Pittsburgh or Philadelphia will get will be five thousand dollars.

LICENSE FEES.

A long resolution providing that the Committee on Vice and Immorality inform the House of the sums paid by the various counties for liquor license was referred.

THE FLOOD AT LEWISTOWN.

A special to the Telegraph from Lewistown says the heavy ice on the river gave way this morning about seven o'clock, and almost bodily wrenched the piers from under the new bridge across the Juniata at that place, the whole structure, with the exception of the canal span, falling into the river. At the time of writing (8½ o'clock,) the ice had gorged below town, and thus far had flooded all the lots between Elizabeth street and the creek. The railroad bridge is apparently safe.

Poisoned to Death.

A healthy liver secretes each day about two and a half pounds of bile, which contains a great amount of waste material taken from the blood. When the liver becomes torpid or congested, it fails to eliminate this vast amount of noxious substance, which, therefore, remains to poison the blood and be conveyed to every part of the system.—What must be the condition of the blood when it is receiving and retaining each day two and a half pounds of poison? Nature tries to work off this poison through other channels and organs—the kidneys, lungs, skin, etc.; but these organs become overtaxed in performing this labor, in addition to their natural functions, and cannot long withstand the pressure, but become variously diseased.

The brain, which is the great electrical centre of all vitality, is unduly stimulated by the unhealthy blood which passes to it from the heart, and it fails to perform its office healthfully. Hence the symptoms of bile poisoning, which are dullness, headache, incapacity to keep the mind on any subject, impairment of memory, dizzy, sleepy, or nervous feelings, gloomy forebodings and irritability of temper. The blood itself being diseased, as it forms the sweat upon the surface of the skin, is so irritating and poisonous that it produces discolored brown spots, pimples, blotches and other eruptions, sores, boils, carbuncles and scrofulous tumors. The stomach, bowels, and other organs spoken of, cannot escape becoming effected, sooner or later, and costiveness, piles, dropsy, dyspepsia, diarrhœa, female weakness, and many other forms of chronic disease, are among the necessary results. As a remedy for all these manifestations of disease, Dr. Pierce's GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY with small daily doses of his Pleasant Purgative Pellets are positively unequaled. By them the liver and stomach are changed to an active and healthy state, the appetite regulated and restored, the blood and secretions thoroughly purified and enriched, and the whole system renovated and built up anew. 50 More than half a century ago, Dr. H. D. Sellers, a celebrated physician of Pittsburgh, discovered and used in his practice the popular remedy known throughout the country as SELLERS' IMPERIAL COUGH SYRUP. This is no QUACK remedy. It was born of wisdom; nurtured by science; and thousands are living witnesses of its wonderful curative powers. It is pleasant to take, and sure to cure Coughs, Colds, Croups, Bronchial Affections, Tickling in the Throat, and all diseases of a kindred nature. R. E. Sellers & Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., are also proprietors of Johnson's Rheumatic Compound, the great internal remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Headache, &c. You can have a doctor always in the house by keeping SELLERS' Family Medicines on hand. THEIR LIVER PILLS are the oldest and best in the market, and every bottle of their Vermifuge is warranted.

☞ For sale by all Druggists and country dealers.

VEGETINE

PURIFIES THE BLOOD, RENOVATES AND INVIGORATES THE WHOLE SYSTEM.

Its Medical Properties are

ALTERATIVE, TONIC, SOLVENT AND DIURETIC.

VEGETINE is made exclusively from the juices of carefully-selected barks, roots and herbs, and so strongly concentrated, that it will effectually eradicate from the system every taint of Scrofula, Scrofulous Humor, Tumors, Cancer, Cancerous Humor, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Syphilitic Diseases, Canker, Faintness at the Stomach, and all diseases that arise from impure blood. Sciatica, Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout and Spinal Complaints, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

For Ulcers and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Pustules, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tetter; Scaldhead and Ringworm, VEGETINE has never failed to effect a permanent cure.

For Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints, Dropsy, Female Weakness, Leucorrhœa, arising from internal ulceration, and uterine diseases and General Debility, VEGETINE acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs; allays inflammation, cures ulceration, and regulates the bowels.

For Catarrh, Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the heart, Headache, Piles, Nervousness and General Prostration of the Nervous System, no medicine has ever given such perfect satisfaction as the VEGETINE. It purifies the blood, cleanses all of the organs, and possesses a controlling power over the nervous system.

The remarkable cures effected by VEGETINE have induced many physicians and apothecaries whom we know to prescribe and use it in their own families.

In fact, VEGETINE is the best remedy yet discovered for the above diseases, and is the only reliable BLOOD PURIFIER yet placed before the public.

H. R. STEVENS, BOSTON, MASS.

FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.

BOSTON, December 17, 1872.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

Dear Sir.—May I ask the favor of you to make my case public?

In 1861, while on picket duty in the army, I was taken with a fit, which lasted all night. Was taken into camp and dosed with whiskey and quinine. After this had fits every day, and was taken to the Newbern Hospital, and there treated by the attending physicians. I grew worse and was sent home. Remained in poor health for four years, treating with many physicians and trying many remedies. Finally Scrofula made its appearance on different parts of my body, and my head was so diseased as to be frightful to look at, and painful beyond endurance. After trying the most eminent physicians, without improvement, a change of climate was advised.

Have been to the Hot Springs in Arkansas twice, each time giving their treatment a thorough trial. Finally came back to Boston, discouraged with no hope of help. Life was a burden to one in my situation. My disease, and the effect of so much powerful medicine, had so damaged my system that the action of my stomach was apparently destroyed, and my head was covered with ulcers which had in places eaten into the skull bone.

The best physicians said my blood was so full of poison they could do no more for me. About this time a friend who had been an invalid told me VEGETINE has restored him to perfect health, and through his persuasion I commenced taking VEGETINE. At this time I was having fits almost every day. I noticed the first good effects of VEGETINE in my digestive organs. My food sat better, and my stomach grew stronger. I began to feel encouraged, for I could see my health slowly and gradually improving. With renewed hope I continued taking the VEGETINE, until it had completely driven disease out of my body. It cured the fits, gave me good, pure blood, and restored me to perfect health, which I had not enjoyed before for ten years. Hundreds of people in the City of Boston can vouch for the above facts.

VEGETINE has saved my life, and you are at liberty to make such use of this statement as pleases you best, and I beg of you to make it known, that other sufferers may find relief with less trouble and expense than I did.

It will afford me great pleasure to show the marks of my disease or give any further information relative to my case to all who desire it.

I am, sir, very gratefully. JOHN PECK, No. 50 Sawyer St., Boston, Mass.

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1875.

A BOOK FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Of this book CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER writes: "In the bound volume of St. Nicholas, with its glory of red and gold, we have a permanent addition to the literature of the young. Never before has so much literary and artistic talent co-operated in the service of children. It is a continued educator of their taste and of their honor and courage. I do not see how it can be made any better, and if the children don't like it I think it is time to begin to change the kind of children in this country."

ST. NICHOLAS FOR 1875.

The prospectus of the second volume shows that there is to be no falling off, but an increase in its literary and pictorial attractions. Among other attractive features are

TWO SPLENDID SERIAL STORIES,

"THE YOUNG SURVEYOR,"

by J. T. TROWBRIDGE, author of the Jack Hazard stories

"EIGHT COUSINS,"

by LOUISA M. ALCOTT, author of "Little Women," etc.

The peculiar features of St. Nicholas, which have conduced so largely to its popularity, will be kept up with spirit.

Short and easy stories in French, German and Latin for translation, will appear occasionally, while Jack-in-the-Pulpit, the Letter Box, and The Riddle Box, will continue to be full of interest, and the department for very young readers will be enlarged.

BAYARD TAYLOR and other distinguished travellers will give Stories of Foreign Countries.

Mr. [illegible] will continue his series of delightful and instructive Papers on Practical Subjects.

Mr. BARTLETT and others will attend to the department of Home Entertainments, Tableaux Vivants, etc.

New writers, in addition to our present large corps of contributors, will give young people of all ages, Poems, Jingles, Stories, Sketches, and Papers on History, Biography, Travel, adventure, Natural History, Out-door and In-door Sports, Boys' and Girls' Handicraft, Kindergarten Games, Literature, Popular Science, with a hearty sprinkling of fun throughout the volume.

Price, $3.00 a year; but up to January 1st we will send the the twelve numbers for the year just closed (Vol. I.) for only $2.00. The same, elegantly bound in red and gold, will be sent, charges paid, for $4.00.

One year's subscription and twelve back numbers, $5.00. One year's subscription and volume one, bound as above, sent, charges paid, for $6.00.

☞ All Postage will be Prepaid by us.

EVERY LADY SHOULD TAKE IT.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE

The Cheapest and Best in the World. Postage Pre-Paid on all Subscriptions.

This popular Monthly Magazine gives more for the money than any in the world. For 1875, it will be greatly improved. It will contain one thousand pages, fourteen splendid steel plates, twelve colored Berlin patterns, twelve mammoth colored fashions, nine hundred wood cuts, twenty-four pages of music. All this will be given for only TWO DOLLARS a year, postage prepaid by the publisher, or a dollar less than Magazines of the class of "Peterson." Its THRILLING TALES AND NOVELETTES are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1875, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Jane G. Austin, Marietta Holley and Daisy Ventnor. MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequaled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies. Superb Premium Engraving to every person getting up either of the following clubs for 1875 will be sent gratis, a copy of our new and splendid mezzotint for framing, (size 21 inches by 26), "Washington's First Interview with his Wife." This is a five dollar engraving, and the most desirable premium ever offered. For large clubs, as will be seen below, an extra copy of the Magazine will be sent in addition.

TERMS (Always in Advance) $2.00 A YEAR.

Postage pre-paid by the Publisher.

2 Copies for $3.50, 3 copies for $4.50. Postage pre-paid on the club, with a copy of the superb mezzotint (21x26) "Washington's First Interview with his Wife," to the person getting up the club.

Laws Relating to Newspaper Subscriptions and Arrearages.

The following is the law relating to newspapers and subscribers.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered wishing to continue their subscription.
2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills, and ordered them discontinued.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publishers, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.
5. The Courts have decided that "refusing to take periodicals from the office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.
6. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.
7. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice to the publisher, at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrears, is sent to the publisher.

REDUCTION!

Until further notice, we propose to insert specials, or locals, in our local columns—not among the items, but distributed through the local matter—at TEN CENTS per line, eight ordinary words constituting a line. No charge, however, will be made for less than fifty cents. tf

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Brief Mention—Home-made and Stolen.

Flitting season approaches.

The creeks and rivers are on a high.

As a shootist Bob Allen is not a success.

Overflowed cellars were numerous last week.

A shad fly put in an appearance early last week.

Another invoice of the "beautiful" on Monday last.

The coming spring bonnet agitates the female mind.

Houtzdale is furnishing lumber for the Centennial buildings.

Judge Orvis, of Centre county, held Court in Bedford last week.

The coal and ore business are both looking up on the Broad Top.

The Kemble Coal and Iron Company lately made a sale of 3,700 tons of pig iron.

Blair county marksmen carried off the "blue ribbon" at the late Rifle Tournament.

Altoona has an establishment that turns out six thousand paper flour sacks daily.

The Tyrone firemen indulged in a torchlight parade on Monday night of last week.

Samuel S. Williamson, son of Gen. John Williamson, we are glad to see, is about again.

A large lot of large and small pocket books just received and for sale at the JOURNAL Store.

A great many of our Juniata township friends had their fences taken away by the ice flow.

"Castle Woods" is what they call it in West Huntingdon. It makes a very handsome appearance.

County and Alms House orders are getting plentier than greenbacks, but they don't go half as well.

What has become of our Dudley correspondent? How are affairs in the coal region? Let us hear, do.

The town authorities have turned water into the canal for any extraordinary emergency. This is sensible.

Lewistown's bridge went down with the ice one day last week. How unfortunate they are down there.

Henry & Co. have a new delivery wagon. It is just the thing to set off Bathurst. 'Glang, old obstinates!

A considerable amount of money changed hands, during the three days shooting, in this place, last week.

The town was pretty well watered last week, and there was'nt very much tax levied upon the fogies either.

The foot-bridge, leading from Juliana street, in Bedford, to the railway station, was taken away by the ice.

Mrs. Edwards, widow of the late W. A. Edwards, esq., of Bedford, died very suddenly, at that place, last week.

Additional track hands are being employed, at different points, on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The all important question is: "How many ministers are you going to have?" Chickens and turkeys are roosting high.

"O, yes! O, yes! who bids? going at an 'alf, an 'alf, an 'alf, gone!" is heard throughout the land at this season of the year.

Business is looking up on Broad Top. Ninety cars are now daily delivered to the Bedford Division for the Cumberland coal trade.

The Hopewell iron bridge, at Hopewell, Bedford county, erected some eight years ago, at considerable expense, is reported gone.

The New American Sewing Machine is now taking the lead here, at least so we are informed by the agent. See local elsewhere.

Two ladies sitting composedly in a sleigh, and a poor horse, wading ten inches in mud, drawing it, is quite an interesting spectacle.

The Rev. Mr. Hunter, of the First Baptist Church, of this place, will immerse several persons on next Sabbath, at the usual place.

Altoona won a prize or two, at the Rifle Tournament, last week, and got her money. Now the Tribune boasteth. Shoo fly! don't bodder me.

The few warm days, last week—snake like—brought out the corner ornaments. Huntingdon has quite an amount of statuary of this kind.

The roads, last week, were muddy beyond measure, and to travel them would make any ordinary driver of beasts of burden swear desperately wicked.

Assistant Burgess, Mord. B. Massey, owing to severe indisposition, was unable to finish his hand in the Rifle Tournament. He is one of our crack shots.

There was more powder burnt, in the neighborhood of Huntingdon, last week, than would have blown up Gibraltar. And the shooting wasn't very remarkable, either.

James Walls, of Shaver's Creek, drives the handsomest turnout in the county. His sleigh, bells and ponies are matchless, though the latter are intended to be matches.

The ice is gorged, at the head of the Huntingdon dam, in a manner that makes people, living on the bank of the river, shudder at the thought of what may be in store for them.

A large number of saw logs—a greater number than we have ever before known—have been delivered to Fisher & Sons' saw mill in Huntingdon. They will make excellent lumber.

Cornman's Mirror reflects things in and about Carlisle most faithfully. Now keep out all personal correspondence, intended to hurt the feelings of any one, and you will find that it will pay.

Richard Langdon, esq., is about to commence operating on Shoup's Run. His son Richard will take charge of a coal office in Philadelphia. Langdon understands the coal business thoroughly.

Read the prospectus of the Pittsburgh Dispatch in another column. It is an excellent general and local newspaper. It claims to have a larger daily circulation than any other paper in Pittsburgh.

Walking bar-rooms are the latest novelty. A fellow fills his pockets with bottles, filled with corn juice, and perambulates the streets, saying: "All ye that are thirsty come and drink; only ten cents per glass."

Scalp orders are so plenty that we have half a mind to get up a nice design for an order so as to make them attractive, and who knows but they might become as popular, as a medium of exchange, as postal currency.

The Philadelphia Times, Col. A. K. McClure's paper, will be furnished, to all who may desire it in this locality, through our news depot. The first number will be issued on the 13th inst. It will be furnished at 50 cents per month.

We saw a large gobbler strutting about on the roof of a stable, the other morning, with head and feathers erect. He was in a very excited frame of mind. Some one suggested that he was scolding at the near approach of Conference.

Our neighbors who think that Huntingdon, having voted against whisky, a year or two ago, and now against water, must be in a bad way, are altogether mistaken. There are oceans of liquids to be had here. This is not putting it too strong.

We have been informed that the freight on coal has been reduced ten cents per ton by the P. R. R. This is not enough. It should be reduced at least fifteen or twenty cents more, and then business would become quite brisk in this locality.

In a little frame shanty, in Cincinnati, an old hermit, named Daniel Schock, died on Monday night. He had promissory notes for $2,500 and $20 in currency among his effects. Letters found in the hovel indicate that he has relatives living in Huntingdon county.

Mr. John Goss, a farmer, residing about three miles west of Tyrone, committed suicide by hanging himself in his barn with a leather line, on Thursday afternoon of last week. Religious excitement is supposed to have led him to commit the rash act. He leaves a wife and five children.

The flow of ice is said to have given the school house, at Corbin's, on the Raystown Branch, a pretty severe twist. It was partially wrenched from its foundation. Some of the pupils are cross because it was not taken away altogether. But then children are not always supposed to know what is the best for them.

On last Friday night some scoundrel broke into the meat market of Schaffner & Doyle, in West Huntingdon, and carried off a quarter of beef, six or eight pounds of round-steak, a steak-knife and about a dollar and a half in change. The entrance was effected through a side door used for putting ice into the refrigerator.

On Thursday morning Mr. William Roehm, proprietor of the Union Hotel, Chestnut street, Lancaster, received, by Adams' Eexpress, the carcass of a large wild cat, which was shot, killed and shipped to him by a hunter named Alexander Park, residing at Coffee Run, Huntingdon county. The body has been placed in the hands of a taxidermist.—Tribune.

John Mower, esq., the auditor to make distribution of the funds in the hands of the Assignees of Reed & Schell, late Bankers in Bedford, filed his report, last week, making a distribution of 10 per cent., which with 6 cents previously distributed, makes 16 per cent. distributed, all told. The liabilities are summed up at $191,000, or thereabouts.

On Wednesday night last, about the "wee sma' hours," the ice on the Juniata, at this place, became shaky, and with a mighty roar, equal to a small earthquake, bid farewell to its moorings, and slipped away down the river. The Portstowners went for their pigs, ducks and chickens, but it was a harmless demonstration, and now everybody is rejoiced.

Two more engines were placed on the Tyrone and Clearfield railroad on Tuesday. The Clearfield coal trade is very extensive. To keep up with the demand a night coal train has been on the road for a month. From the beginning of the year to Saturday last, the excess of coal shipments, over the corresponding time last year, is eight thousand tons.—Tyrone Herald.

Joseph Flagle and wife, who reside on Mifflin street, in West Huntingdon, were both absent from home last week, and some pilfering scoundrel or scoundrels broke into their residence and carried off a large amount of their household goods. People should be careful not to tempt the wicked and hungry by leaving their houses without some one to protect them.

The Register and Recorder's office, under the administration of our friend, Wm. E. Lightner, esq., has given uniform satisfaction. Mr. Lightner has given strict attention to business and the sequence is that he is never behind with his work, while his social qualities have made him a general favorite with all parties. We would not be surprised to hear that he is a candidate for re-election.

An aged lady named Mrs. Catharine Butterbaugh, died in this city last Friday from the effects of exposure to the cold. It appears that the house in which she resided, situated on the East Side, is a mere shell, and she was unable to protect herself properly from the severity of the weather. One of the neighbors called in and found her frozen almost stiff, and in a few hours subsequently she died.—Altoona Sun, 26th ult.

Whenever you get an advertisement from parties you do not know, in Philadelphia or New York, first enclose it to some reliable agency, with the request that they contract with the party, if responsible, and that the usual percentage will be allowed. By postal card you can refer the advertiser to the agency. In nine cases out of ten the reply will be: "Dead beat!" Never trust the fellows who want to get around the advertising agencies.

A man, whose name we did not learn correctly—some alleging his name to be Cornelius, while others insisted that it was Isenberg—was struck by the Day Express, on Saturday last, about a mile and a half east of Spruce Creek, and he was so badly injured that he died during the evening. He was a track hand, and had stepped off the south track to the north to avoid the approaching train, but too late to learn that the train was on that track. It had been changed to pass a wreck on its proper track.

Like a clap of thunder from a cloudless sky came the announcement, on Wednesday, of the death of John J. Burns, esq., an acting Justice of the Peace for St. Augustine, Cambria County. Only a couple of weeks prior, he, accompanied by his estimable wife, had visited this place, with the flush of youthful health on his face, and the tidings of his demise fell therefore upon us with cruel force. He was an able, active business man; a good citizen, neighbor and friend—one whom it is a public calamity to have taken away. His memory, we are sure, will long remain green with the hosts of friends who enjoyed his acquaintanceship, while to his bereaved family is extended unstinted sympathy. The deceased was about 38 years of age, and came to this county from Bedford.—Cambria Freeman.

A few evenings since several gentlemen were discussing the destitution among laboring men, when some one remarked that he knew a family, in West Huntingdon, that was entirely destitute. Contributions were at once proffered to buy the family a sack of flour and other provisions. The morning following a gentleman was passing the residence of the destitute laborer, when his attention was drawn to the head of the family standing in the yard, in front of his residence, gazing up into the heavens. The gentleman approached him and inquired what he was observing. He replied that "he was entirely destitute, and that he was praying the Lord to send them something to eat." The gentleman, at once, gave him an order to Messrs. Henry & Co. for some flour, whither he proceeded, and when he returned with that which makes the "staff of life," he found the flour and provisions donated the previous night also on hand. His prayer had been speedily answered.

ORBISONIA ITEMS.—The following are gleaned from the Leader:

Long trains of ties are carried nearly every day over the road to Mt. Union.

The Council should require the remaining board walks to be put down rapidly.

Rev. Matron succeeds Mr. Spangler in the United Brethren Church in this place.

The distance from Mt. Union to Robertsdale by rail is twenty-nine and three-fourths miles.

The school-tax, alone, of the Rockhill Iron and Coal Co., in Cromwell township, is near five hundred dollars.

Mr. Downing, our coal merchant, loaded thirty-two sleds in one day, with Broad Top coal, during sledding times.

Conductor Killin, of the Mail Train, has been confined to his house for several days. Hope soon to see him about again.

What young gentleman lost his hat on Sunday evening, while on his way home from Shirley? He found it again, however.

A stage leaves here for Shade Gap, at one o'clock each afternoon, returning next morning at ten; good stages and careful drivers.

The School Directors elected in the township are favorable to short term and low wages; we presume this is consistent with panic times.

Persons who may have occasion to go to the passenger depot, these muddy times, can see the advantage of having a bridge over Blacklog creek, at Ashman street.

Some of the horses, in Orbisonia, are so fast that it is proposed to put them up against "Goldsmith Maid" the coming season, at least one of our yonng gentlemen thought so, on Sunday evening last, while on his way to Shirley.

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to be present at the entertainment given by Miss Hawker's school, on Tuesday evening last. It would have afforded us much pleasure to have been present, as we had no doubt the entertainment would be good, however prior engagements prevented our being present.

Religious meetings have been going on during the past week, in the United Brethren Church, of this place, and in the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches of Shirleysburg.—There is reason to believe that much good is being done at these meetings, and that the spirit of God is manifesting itself with power in our midst.

On Tuesday last, as the Rev. Alexander, of Path Valley, with his family, was attempting to cross the creek, in the Rockhill narrows, on the ice, he noticed some distance in front of him, a large hole in the ice, and in attempting to drive around the sleigh was upset, spilling the occupants into the creek. Fortunately, save the wetting, so far as we can learn, they escaped uninjured.

On Monday as a teamster from the little furnace, known as "Old Tom," was bringing in a load of ore, and had reached the hill south of town, his team became unmanageable and overturned his wagon and load doing little damage fortunately. This man is nearly eighty years of age, and drove team here sixty years ago; he drives one of the largest and best company teams, and has missed but few days from work this winter.

The Orbisonia Senate session of Monday night was as interesting as could be expected, as it was the first assembly of the kind projected here. None of our members profess to know anything about the workings of such a body. We all have to learn and this was the main object of the session; and from the spirit of some of the closing discussions it would seem that some at least are learning fast. But the members—the Speaker especially—will be better posted on the rules by next Monday evening, and a lively, interesting and profitable—but not tedious—session is anticipated.

The warm weather of the past few days has had the effect of putting a livelier look on business, about town. We notice large numbers of carpenters at work on the numerous new houses, in process of erection in town, and, on which work had been suspended on account of the cold weather. Our ever active and wide-awake fellow-townsmen, Thos. Montague, contractor and builder, has also taken advantage of the "let up" in the weather and resumed operations. We presume this will be hailed with delight by those contemplating building, as the reputation of Mr. Montague and his employees as good workmen is unexcelled.

MT. UNION ITEMS.—The following are clipped from the Herald:

The county bridge above town is not safe for travel.

Matilda Furnace has started up and made her boom! boom! a joyful sound.

Mrs. Barbin, a respected old lady, died in this place on last Tuesday.

Rev. Pennypacker, of Mifflin, delivered a sermon in the M. E. Church on last Sunday night, which was listened to by a large audience.

The immense quantity of snow which has fallen the past six weeks and the large mass of ice on the Juniata River have created apprehensions of a disastrous flood in the stream. The snow is from two to three feet deep in many places, and the ice has attained a thickness of two and three feet. In case of continued mild weather, accompanied by a copious and protracted rain, a freshet of serious magnitude is inevitable.

We clip the following from the Times:—S. B. Wollet, of Lock Haven, was in town a few days ago.

We learn that wheat is rising in price, owing to the scarcity and demand for it.

The public schools, of Mount Union, are prospering this winter, and the teachers are all highly spoken of.

The rate of premiums at the sale of money, on last Tuesday night, by the Building and Loan Association, was 43 per cent.

BALDNESS and the Great Remedy, Cox's Glycerate of Arnica—hair grown in 12 months on heads bald twenty years—see photographs at agents No. 5 north 5th street, Philadelphia, and J. C. Fleming & Co. Cor. 5th and Washington streets, Huntingdon, Pa. A certificate on each bottle from eminent chemists as to its fredom from ALL injurious engredients—a perfectly clear preparation. Feb.10-6t.

Twenty five cents will pay for the DAILY JOURNAL during the session of Conference at this place. If any of our contemporaries will mention this fact, we will be pleased, as a slight return for the favor, to send it to them during its publication. tf

RIFLE TOURNAMENT.—The Sixth Annual Tournament, of the Huntingdon County Rifle Association, opened, in this place, on the 22d ult., and continued for three days. In addition to Huntingdon County marksmen, a large number were present from Mifflin, Blair and Cambria counties, making in all about thirty contestants. One hundred and eighty-six boards were sold, at $1 each, five shots at each, making a total of nine hundred and thirty shots to be fired during the contest.—The shooting was done at the western end of the fair ground, where a shed had been erected for the comfort and convenience of the marksmen. One hundred yards were measured off, and after the selection of Isaac Long, Michael Borst and Isaac H. Hildebrand, as judges, and J. H. Boring, as clerk, time was called, and about 3 o'clock, P. M., the first marksman "toed the mark," and the contest opened. Very inferior shooting was done the first day, but as the match progressed there was great improvement, and some excellent marksmanship was displayed before its close.

The weather was all that could be desired, and great numbers of spectators crowded the field from day to day to witness the sport usually prevailing at these meetings. No serious accident occurred during the three days' shooting. Mr. John N. Geissinger, of this place, was struck on the neck by a glancing ball, cutting through his clothing and breaking the skin.

We are indebted to our friend, Boring, for the following result:

D. M. McCartney, of Altoona, shot for E. J. Keer, of Ebensburgh. Length of string 6 inches. Awarded the first prize, a Remington rifle, cost $52.60

Isaac Mains, of Altoona, for William Prowley, string 7⅛. Second prize $41.88.

W. P. Conrad, of Huntingdon, for H. G. Fisher. String 7⅜. Third prize $31.41.

F. H. Barker, of Ebensburg. String 7 11 16. Fourth prize $20.94.

Wm. Hastings, of Huntingdon, for A. B. Kennedy. String 7 13 16. Fifth prize $10.52.

Wm. Crum, of this county. String 7⅞. Sixth prize, shooting-shed, &c.

Mr. Barker, winner of the fourth prize, made a hurdle string on Tuesday, of five shots, which measured only 2 5-16 inches, but unfortunately for him they were too far from prize centre.

At the close of the match, on Wednesday evening, two matches came off, for purses of $20 and $10, between Mr. Conrad, of this place, and Mr. McCartney of Altoona, which resulted in the success of the latter gentleman.

FAITHFUL (?) TO A FAULT.—The following incident, which occurred last Saturday, on the Bedford Division of the P. R. R., is related by an eye-witness, who was a passenger on the express train running north from New Bridgeport. Among the passengers was a young man, of respectable appearance, and about sixteen years of age, who, being asked for his ticket by conductor B——, searched his pockets in vain, declaring that he had bought one at Bridgeport. The search brought to light nothing except two door keys, whereupon the gentlemanly (?) conductor emphatically declared the young man to be a thief.—Notwithstanding the fare was but 34 cents, with a nice sense of duty, he demanded the young man's coat, which he gave to the baggage-master, telling him not to deliver it until the 34 cents were paid. The young man is a well known citizen of New Baltimore, Somerset county, and was returning home from Baltimore, Md. After procuring his tickets he had spent what little money he had left for something to eat. The day was cold and windy, and when the train ran into the depot, nearest the young man's home, nine miles distant, the prospect was anything but cheerful. The young man begged for his coat with tears in his eyes, declaring that he could not stand the walk over the mountain without it. But the conductor, with a hard heartedness we have never seen equaled, refused to give it up until the fare was paid. The affair attracting the attention of parties at the depot, our conductor, to avoid inquiry, perhaps, signaled the engineer and the train moved on. A kind-hearted passenger, learning the state of affairs, redeemed the coat, and the young man was permitted to leave the train about a mile further on.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP ITEMS.—

Jacob Hallman, of Saulsburg, is dead. He was buried on the 17th ult.

William Hoover, son of Samuel Hoover, died of consumption last week.

The Lutherans have closed their meeting for the present. A number of prominent young men professed religion.

Stewart Wilson shot two grey foxes and a wild cat on the 13th of January. Beat that, if you can, ye sportsmen.

The majority of the school houses, in this this township, did not need any ventilation for the last six weeks. Think there could be some improvement made on them.

Mr. McNeil, Superintendent of Common Schools, was around visiting the schools, and held a teacher's meeting at the Fort School House. All present were much interested in the proceedings. JACKSON.

DR. HENRY ORLADY SERIOUSLY INJURED.—On last Friday evening, about dark, as Dr. H. Orlady, of Petersburg, was passing along the street, near the railway station, in that place, he slipped and fell upon the sidewalk and fractured, what anatomists term, the neck of the femur (thigh-bone) with the capsular ligament of the left side. He was conveyed to his residence where he is now lying. On Saturday he was visited by Drs. Brumbaugh and Miller, of this place, who, together with his son, Dr. Geo. B. Orlady, made an examination of the injury and did all that could be done to relieve the patient. We deeply sympathize with our esteemed friend, in this his hour of affliction, and hope that his best anticipations, and those of his friends, will be realized, and that he may soon be about again in the best of health.

DURING the changeable seasons of Fall and Winter, when Coughs and Colds are so prevalent, no person should be without some reliable preparation for their cure. They should recollect that a neglected Cough or Cold frequently terminates in consumption. Hasson's Compound Syrup of Tar is the best and most reliable article known for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Asthma, Chronic Catarrhs, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. No family should be without it. It is no private "quack" preparation; on the contrary, it is prescribed by some of the most eminent physicians in the county. Price 50 cents. Sold by J. C. Fleming & Co., Druggists.

P. S. See that the signature of Russel & Landis, Prop'rs. is on each wrapper. [f.10-6t.

"WHERE IS 525 PENN STREET?"—"Why, don't you know that's where Jas. A. Brown has his large Carpet and Furniture establishment?"

"Yes, that's the place I'm looking for. I want a share of the bargains he offers."

Keep your eye on 525 Penn street.

LECTURE.—A lecture will be delivered in the M. E. Church, on Monday evening, March 15th, at 7½ o'clock, by Rev. Geo. W. Miller, of York, Pa. Subject: "Americanism." The proceeds are to be applied to the West Huntingdon Mission M. E. Sunday School. Admission, 25 cents.

The DAILY JOURNAL will be sent, postage paid, to any address, during Conference, for twenty-five cents. Reader, send us twenty-five cents, by mail, and you shall have it regularly. tf

HERE IS WHAT A TAILORESS SAYS OF THE NEW AMERICAN SEWING MACHINE:—

ALEXANDRIA, February 22d, 1875.

Mr. J. H. Thomas—Dear Sir:—I thought I would drop you a few lines to let you know what I think of the New American Sewing Machine. Indeed I am delighted with it, and think that genius has reached her climax, as further improvement cannot be made. In fact threading the needle alone is all there is to be done. And time gained by the speed is at least one dollar in a week's work more than on any other machine in market. I think I ought to be a judge, for I have sewed on at least twenty-six or eight kinds, owned four, and used a shuttle machine for seven years.

Yours truly,

Mh3-3t J. L. ALBRIGHT.

PUBLIC SALES.—The season for public sales is fast approaching, and we would remind those of our readers desiring any of this kind of printing, that we have superior facilities for executing it. We have a large and varied assortment of cuts, purchased expressly for illustrating sale-bills; also, an invoice of new type, embracing several different designs, for the same purpose; and we flatter ourselves that we can get up the neatest posters in this section of the country. Call and see specimens, before going elsewhere. tf.

WHY does the "Domestic" Sewing Machine continue to have a ready sale while other machines are a drag on the market in these times of stagnation and panic? The answer is just here: Because all experienced sewing machine men, and everybody else acknowledge the superiority of the "Domestic" over all other machines. And people knowing its superiorities, and seeing its merits will buy it and the investment is one that pays and is never regretted. nov.4tf.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.—Letters remaining in the Post Office, at Huntingdon, February 27th, 1875:

R. A. Black, S. Cohen (2), John Ginnevan, Mrs. Dell Ginnivan, Graham Meadville, Malvera McClure, Lizzie Osburn, Gideon Wheeling.

Persons desiring advertised letters forward ed must send one cent fee, for advertising.

J. HALL MUSSER, P. M.

THERE are probably over a hundred or more persons in this and neighboring towns, who daily suffer from the distressing effects of kidney troubles, who do not know that Johnson's Anodyne Liniment is almost a certain cure. In severe cases, great relief may be obtained, if not a perfect cure.

A lady in our neighborhood, who had suffered for over three months, the most extreme torture by a violent cough, has become completely cured by the use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. For sale in every drug store.

EXTENSION TABLES, Breakfast, Dining and other Tables, Sinks, Cupboards, Doughtrays, etc., on hand, and made to order promptly, at J. A. Brown's Carpet & Furniture Store, 525 Penn Street.

FARMERS, LOOK TO YOUR INTEREST!—Your wives are wanting a good sewing machine. Now, Miller and Wilson will sell you a "Domestic" and receive in payment therefor all kinds of marketable produce, at the highest market prices. tf.

WE notice that the Agricultural papers, all over the country, recommend the use of Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders.—Exchange. Farmers and others in this section have long known and appreciated the advantage of these powders over all others.

If you want pictures or chromos the JOURNAL Store is the place to buy them. tf.

Philadelphia Cattle Market.

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—Beef Cattle.—A considerable falling off in the consumptive demand for Beef during the past week had its effect to-day in curtailing the inquiry from the butchers, and the market for all descriptions was about as dull as it well could be. The receipts were more liberal, and were made up largely of inferior grades, which were difficult to place at almost any price, while purchasers of choice grades could only be found at a decline of fully ¼c ⅌ lb on the closing price of last week. We quote extra at 8@8½c; fair to good at 5½@7¼c, and common at 4@5c. Receipts, 2,900 head.

A PAPER FOR THE PEOPLE!

THE PITTSBURG DAILY DISPATCH,

ESTABLISHED FEBRUARY 8, 1846.

And one of the Largest, Liveliest and Best Newspapers in the United States, enters upon the New Year with a new dress, and greatly improved in all its departments.

THE DISPATCH gives the Latest News by Mail and Telegraph from all quarters of the Globe, embracing the fullest and most reliable Commercial and Financial Reports, home and foreign; full and reliable Oil Reports: daily reports of current events in the city, including Court News, Police Reports, and General City Intelligence; Personal, Political and Society News, with carefully digested Editorial Comments on all the more important topics of the day; Special Correspondence from all points of interest, Original Poetry, etc., etc. Whether for the merchant, the manufacturer, the professional man, the mechanic, the farmer or the family, THE DISPATCH will be found a most valuable and reliable journal, and as such it can cheerfully be commended to the public. Its bold advocacy of the rights and interests of the people, as against all Rings, Cliques or Combinations inimical to said rights and interests, has won for it a position and standing never before attained by a Pittsburg journal, and secured for it a circulation from double to quadruple that of any paper in the State outside of Philadelphia. The daily edition of THE DISPATCH is now within a mere fraction of 15,000,

and the demand for it continues steadily to increase.

TERMS:

By mail to single subscribers, $8.00 per annum; in clubs of ten, $7.00. Served by agents or carriers to single subscribers at 15 cents per week.

THE WEEKLY DISPATCH.

One of the Choicest, Cheapest and Best Family Newspapers Published.

EVERYBODY SHOULD READ IT.

The Pittsburg WEEKLY DISPATCH, like the Daily, is printed from clear, new type, and is one of the choicest, as well as one of the cheapest Family papers published. It is a large folio sheet, containing thirty-six columns of matter, embracing all the more important news of the week, carefully collated and condensed, and omitting nothing essential to a general knowledge of everything of interest transpiring throughout the country. Indeed, as a newspaper, it is not surpassed by any similar publication in America, while the care with its selections are made, and their great variety, render it a most desirable paper for the family—a journal replete with interesting reading, and one that cannot fail to please. The Commercial and Financial Reports of the WEEKLY DISPATCH are made up with great care, and are always full and reliable, while to its cattle and stock reports equal care is given. The WEEKLY is furnished to subscribers at the following rates: 1 copy 1 year, postage prepaid. $1.50; 10 copies, 1 year, postage prepaid, $11.60; 20 copies, 1 year, postage prepaid, $20.00; 50 copies, 1 year, postage prepaid, $45.00; 100 copies, 1 year, postage pr paid, $80.00. A copy of our elegantly illustrated Almanac, with 30 engravings, free to each member of clubs. It is the cheapest paper in America, its size and the amount of reading matter it gives considered, and every family should have it.

WILL BUY A

FIRST MORTGAGE PREMIUM BOND

OF THE

N. Y. INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITON CO.

These Bonds are issued for the purpose of raising funds for the erection of a building in the City of New York, to be used for a a permanent home, where every manufacturer can exhibit and sell his goods, and every patentee can show his invention; a centre of industry which will prove a vast benefit to the whole country.

For this purpose, the Legislature of the State of New York has granted a charter to a number of our most wealthy and respectable merchants, and these gentlemen have purchased no less than eight blocks of the most valuable land in the City of New York. The building to be erected will be seven stories high (150 feet in height), surmounted by a magnificent dome, and will cover a space of 22 acres. It will be constructed of Iron, Brick and Glass, and made fire-proof. The bonds, which are all for $20 each, are secured by a first mortgage on the land and building, and for the purpose of making them popular, the directors have decided to have quarterly drawings of $150,000 each; this money being the interest on the amount of the whole loan.

Every bondholder must receive at least $21.00, but he may receive $100,000!

Or $35,000, or $10,000, or $5,000, or $3,000, &c., &c.

Farm and Household.

"Does Farming Pay?"

Most unquestionably it does. Good, systematic farming will pay from ten to fifteen per cent. on the investment. But as some farms are managed it does not pay more than three per cent. on the money invested. The man who owns or manages a farm and fails to make ten per cent. has simply missed his calling.

I never knew of a single instance where the farmer, who attended to his business, did not get independent so far as this world's goods are concerned, and you can scarcely say this of any other class. Besides most people lose sight of the quiet, independent life the farmer leads. He lives on the fat of the land. His children do not grow up in idleness and ignorance, nor are they surrounded with as many evils and temptations, as those living in the cities. The farmer is generally well posted on the current events of the day. His daughters have their pianos or organs, magazines, periodicals, etc. His sons no longer wear the homespun and either ride or drive their own fat horses as independently as a king, instead of paying one dollar an hour as the city chap pays for a livery rig. But to the complaining farmer we have a word to say. Just quit your grumbling and go to work. Fix up your fences. Hang up your gates. Keep your implements dry; clean out your fence corners; take better care of your stock, and have everything intended for sale in fine condition, and then it will bring the best prices. Turn over a new leaf and you will find no room, time or reason for grumbling. Be a model farmer, and you will find that farming pays in more ways than one.—A. E., in Columbus Gazette.

Sulphur for Fowls.

There is no remedy and assistant so easily and cheaply obtained, so harmless to the fowls, or so satisfactory in its results as sulphur. It being in the system of animals to a small degree, there is a greater affinity for it than there otherwise would be. It can be administered to the fowls by having it in a small box, so that they can help themselves, or by mixing it with their food once a week, or as often as there are indications of vermin. Penetrating as it does, to every part of the system, all parasites are quickly and surely destroyed. Also gapes are said to be prevented in chickens. Fowls need it more than most animals, their feathers containing between four and five per cent. of sulphur. Their eggs also, have a small quantity, which is noticed by the discoloring of a silver spoon when it comes in contact with a boiled egg. Applied externally to the fowls when on the nest, to the nest itself, or mixed with the soil in the dusting box, it is equally efficacious in destroying vermin. To be used as a fumigator of buildings, it is necessary to remove the fowls, close the room or house, mix a little saltpetre with the sulphur in an iron vessel, and apply a match to the mixture. This should be done in the morning, and the doors and windows opened in the afternoon for a thorough ventilation. Lard mixed with sulphur in proper proportions and applied as often as necessary to the feathers on the neck and back of young and old turkeys, is a very good safe-guard against the ravages of foxes. For our own profits and the comfort of the fowls, let us then use sulphur or remedies of a like nature.

Destroying the Bark Louse.

There are several species of bark lice, all more or less injurious to plants upon which they live, and some are rather difficult to destroy. The particular species infesting the apple tree (Aspidiotus conchiformus) can usually be destroyed by thoroughly washing the bark with a potash lie. The "scale bug" which infests the orange tree (cocus citri) is very similar in its habits to the apple bark-louse, but is more difficult to kill. A vigorous use of soapsuds seems to be only a transient remedy. The application of coal oil is also transient in its results. Lately this insect has made its appearance in the orange orchards in Los Angeles Valley, California, injuring the quality of the fruit to some extent, and threatening to destroy the trees. Some of the leading orange culturists in that locality have been experimenting on the effects of the various remedies that have been from time to time suggested, and, according to a card which they have published in the Los Angeles Herald, have succeeded in finding a sure remedy. The principal ingredient in the remedy used is carbonic acid gas, and it is applied by the use of an ordinary portable "fire-extinguisher." The strength of an ordinary charge is simply reduced, and it is applied directly to the trees. The inventor lays no claim to any patent and the Californians say that any of the common patent extinguishers can be successfully used.

Decomposition of Eggs.

According to Mr. William Thompson, of Manchester, the decomposition of eggs may be brought about by any one of three different agencies. The first, which he terms "putrid cell," is generated from the yolk, this swelling and absorbing or mixing entirely with the white, and ending with a true putrefaction. The second is that of the vibrie, the germs of which (floating as they do through the atmosphere), when setting on the moist surface of an egg, readily penetrate into it, and set in motion the putrefactive condition; but when the shell is dry such penetration is impossible. The third is a fungus decomposition, in which the spores penetrate within the shell as before, sending filaments through the egg and converting the white into the consistency of a strong jelly, the filaments being sometimes so abundant as to cause the whole contents to resemble a hard-boiled egg.

DOGGING, rapidly chasing, beating or frightening milk cows not only greatly reduces the quantity of milk, but careful investigation has demonstrated that they seriously injure the healthy quality of the same.

VINEGAR BITTERS.

PURELY VEGETABLE.

FREE FROM ALCOHOL.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medical properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of the disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflamation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters act on all these cases in a similar manner. By purifying the Blood they remove the cause, and by resolving away the effects of the inflammation (the tubercular deposits) the affected parts receive health, and a permanent cure is effected.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use Vinegar Bitters as a medicine, and avoid the use of alchoholic stimulants in every form.

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vinegar Bitters the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Billious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying al its fluids with Vinegar Bitters. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Head-ache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Billious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of the Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional diseases, Walker's Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For inflamatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Billious, Remittant and Intermittant Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of Walker's Vinegar Bitters occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-worms, Scald-head, sore Eyes, Erysipe-Itch, Scrufs, Discolorations of the skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system wil, follow.

THE MOST VALUABLE PATENTS EVER USED IN PIANO-FORTES.

PATENT ARION.

REVERSED WOODEN AGRAFFE.

THE COMPOUND REST PLANK.

THE FULL IRON FRAME.

AND THE SUSTAINING IRON BAR.

A FEW REASONS

WHY THE

ARION PIANO

IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS:

The ARION PIANO-FORTE has greater power than any other Piano-Forte manufactured.

It will Stand in Tune Longer, and in its mechanical construction it is more perfect, and, therefore, more durable, than any instrument constructed in the usual modern style.

The arrangement of the Agraffe, the manner of stringing, the peculiar form and arrangement of the Iron Frame

SUPERCEDES ALL OTHERS

The use of a bar (which is a part of the Iron Frame on a line with the heavy steel stringing,) gives where most needed, and in this respect all other pianoes fail.

The construction of the WREST PLANK, into which the tuning Pins are inserted, is such that it is impossible for the pins to come loosened, or the Wrest Plank itself to split, as is too often the case in other Piano-Fortes.

The Extraordinary Evenness

throughout the scale, the excellent Singing Quality, the

LENGTH AND PURITY OF VIBRATION,

all go to prove what we claim, viz: that the

ARION PIANO-FORTE

Is the Best Instrument Manufactured.

BEATTY & PLOTTS'

CELEBRATED

GOLDEN-TONGUE PARLOR ORGAN

IS ACKNOWLEDGED BY EMINENT MUSICIANS AND DISTINGUISHED MEN OF HONOR TO BE THE LEADING INSTRUMENT NOW IN USE —THEY SAY—

BEATTY & PLOTTS'

PARLOR ORGANS were awarded FIRST PREMIUM and DIPLOMA over Needham & Son's and J. Estey & Co's Organs at the Carbon County Fair, held at Lehighton, Pa., September, 1872.—Lehighton Weekly News, Oct. 5, 1872.

Committee,—Prof. Charles F. Horn, Prof. Wm. Moran, and H. D. Hardy, D. D., Hon. Z. Long, President.

St. Clair, Pa., Dec. 6, 1873.

MESSRS. BEATTY & PLOTTS—Gents: I have received the Organ sent by your firm to me, and had it examined. It gives ample satisfaction.

JOHN SENEY.

Mahanoy City, Pa., Oct. 16, 1873.

THE BEATTY & PLOTTS celebrated Golden Tongue Parlor Organ is by far the best Parlor Organ in use. I have carefully examined it, and find its tone, workmanship and durability to be the best I ever saw, and I can with pleasure recommend it to any in want of a first-class parlor organ.

PROF. O. H. UNGER.

New Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 22, 1873.

MESSRS. BEATTY & PLOTTS—Gents: Having had one of your Golden Tongue Parlor Organs, for six months past, I thought before recommending it, to give it a fair, square trial, and am happy to testify that it surpassed all that has been said or advertised about it. I have had Professors of music, and celebrated organists come and try it, and one and all say that it is one of the sweetest and best toned instruments in the market. It has taken the shine out of all others around here. I am perfectly satisfied with it. You may publish this if you see fit, as my organ can be tried by any one wishing to do so, in proof of what I say.

A. S. R. RICHARDS,
Late of the Tamaqua Courier, now of New Bethlehem, Pa.

BEATTY & PLOTTS Golden Tongue Parlor Organs are instruments that are winning for themselves a good reputation far and wide. The career of the firm is full of interest and shows what close application to one branch of business will do. Their energy, zeal and unyielding determination have enabled them to win.—Washington N. J. Star, March 27, 1874.

THE BEATTY & PLOTTS parlor organs are highly praised by good judges, for their sweetness of tone.—Pittston (Pa.) Comet Oct. 8, 1873.

Lewry's Station, Pa., Jan. 27, 1874.

I have had BEATTY & PLOTTS' Organ since August 10th, 1872; it gives the highest satisfaction, and has proved all that it was recommended by the proprietors.

JOB HENRY.

THE BEATTY & PLOTTS' celebrated Golden Tongue Parlor Organs are pronounced unsurpassed by any now before the musical world, by all who have had the pleasure to examine them. Testimony from all parts of the country speaks in favor of them, going to show their superiority over all others.—Ashland, Pa., Bulletin, Dec. 5, 1873.

Lewry's Station, Pa., Jan. 27, 1874.

Beatty & Plotts' Parlor Organ, of N. J., seem to give full satisfaction to all purposes all over; and I must say by the experience I have of one of these organs—which I have had in my possession for nearly two years, and is in excellent condition—I would advise all who wish to get a good and substantial parlor organ to see the above named party, before buying anywhere else.

DAVID SCHREINER,
Music Teacher.

Slatington, Pa., Feb. 6, 1874.

BEATTY & PLOTTS' Parlor Organ I like better than the Standard, and gives better satisfaction, as I find by experience in my profession.

PROF. FRANK MAYER.

Tamaqua, Pa., Dec. 16, 1873.

Those desiring a beautiful ornament for their homes, as well as an instrument of unsurpassed musical excellence will find it in the Beatty & Plotts Golden Tongue Parlor Organ. It gives entire satisfaction, and, in fact, is the leading instrument of the day.

JULIA C. WHITENIGHT, Organist.

MESSRS. BEATTY & PLOTTS, of Washington, New Jersey, are happy. They live in an atmosphere of music. Music soft and sweet, music strong and warlike, the shrill notes of the warrior, or the lute-like tones of love are thrilling and ever sounding in their establishment, and their famous Golden Tongue Organs are a household necessity all over.—Tamaqua (Pa.) Courier, March 28, 1874.

PARLOR ORGANS.—We call attention to the advertisement of Beatty & Plotts, manufacturers of Parlor organs, in another part of this paper. These organs are fast superceding all others on account of their good qualities. A number of these instruments have been sold in this county, which give general satisfaction. These instruments are highly recommended by the best musicians in the country.—Sunbury American.

St. Clair, Pa., April 7, 1874.

TO DANIEL F. BEATTY:—I have received my organ all right. It pleases me very much. I never played an organ that gives me better satisfaction, the case looks splendid. I have a friend waiting for one. Please send me another No. 60 at once for him. He advocates your organs above all others. Enclosed please find check.

Very respectfully,
JOHN MILLS.

APPLETONS'

AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA

NEW REVISED EDITION.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with Several Thousand Engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA was completed in 1863, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new edition entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruit of application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political and historical events.

The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

This work is sold to Subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It will be completed in sixteen large octavo volumes, each containing about 800 pages, fully illustrated, with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps.
